

LOG DRIVE

In an operation called rearing, members of a rearing crew try to pry loose a number of logs jammed in mid-river. Serious jams are sometimes dynamited.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW by AP Photographer Doug Wilson

At start of drive, a bulldozer pushes logs stacked during summer and winter into the river.

The courage and strength of the logging man, especially on hazardous log drives down churning rivers, has been immortalized in American literature. From such men comes the legendary Paul Bunyan.

With modern technology, the old log drives are gradually disappearing. Now logs are hauled to mills mostly on trucks and trains.

One of the last major sawlog drives in the nation took place recently when some 35 million board feet of logs were moved down the Clearwater river in northern Idaho to a mill at Lewiston.

The logs were stacked some 90 miles upriver during the summer and winter months by logging crews who felled the timber and skidded it to the river's edge. The drive began with the high waters of the spring runoff.

A 34-man crew accompanied the logs down river, using pevees and pike poles to clear jams.

With them went a floating cook and bunk house called a wannigan—a three-piece raft buoyed by inflatable pontoons and steered with powerful outboard motors.

Once the drive is under way the crew is seldom dry. They spend eight hours each day in the water working logs loose. Sure footedness, quick reflexes and brute strength are qualifications for the job.

This drive, by Patlatch Forests, Inc., has been going on annually since 1929 but will soon end. Next year the logs will be diverted through a tunnel at the Dworshak dam construction site some 40 miles below the starting point. The following year the logs will have to be moved by truck since the dam will block the way.

Now, any logging man will tell you that if old Paul Bunyan were still around they'd still make the drive. He'd just lift those logs right over the dam!

Using pevees, two members of the crew try to work logs jammed at river's edge back into the river. Powerful jet boats carry the crews to and from the jams in the river and everyone wears life vests.

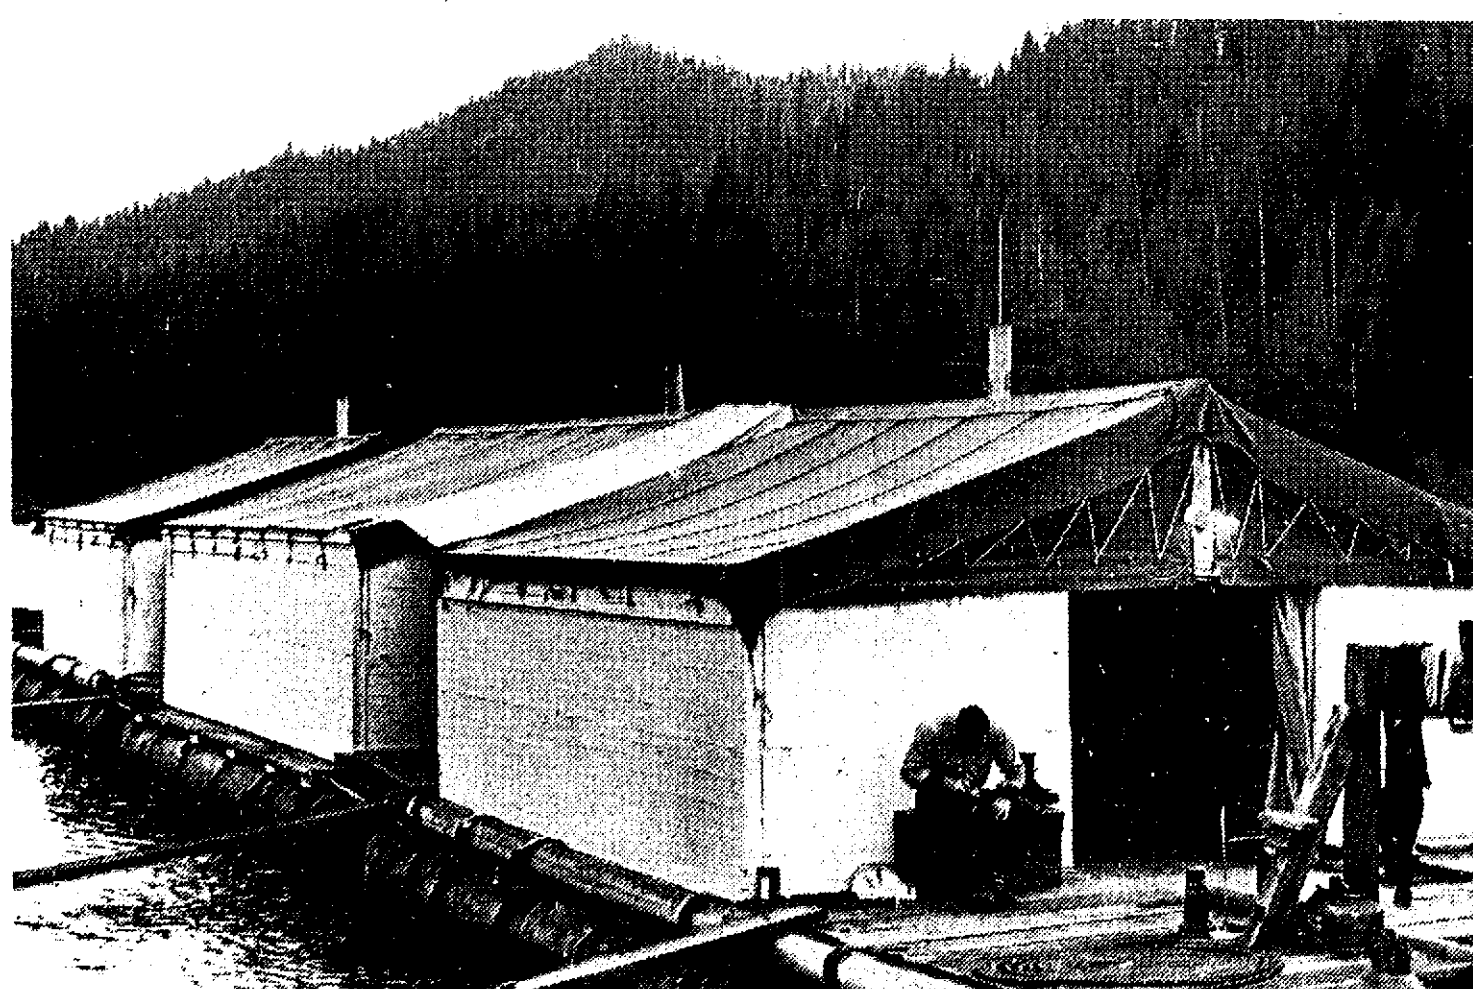

Once a jam starts to break up the crews must scramble quickly back into the boat to keep from being carried away with the logs. Sometimes the logs are pulled apart with a line attached to the jet boats.

To insure good footing the men constantly repair the spikes on their caulked boots.

A raft called a wannigan accompanies the loggers down river, stopping at night at the river's edge. On board is the cook tent and two bunk houses. The huge raft is steered with powerful outboard motors.

Steaks and ice cream, as well as pies, biscuits and cookies make up the daily fare for the hungry logging crews.

'In' Shirts Worn 'Out' This Season

by Helen Hennessy
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Women not only seem to be wearing the pants in the family but the shirts, too. According to a leading shirt manufacturer the average girl has at least three pair of slacks in her wardrobe and about a dozen shirts. And she's augmenting her shirt collection by approximately 10 a year.

This season it's "in" to be "out" in shirt wearing. Shirts on the loose (or worn outside) can create a soft silhouette which doesn't depend on a wisp of a waist to look glamorous in slacks.

Loose, however, doesn't mean wide. Pant-top shirts are all reed-slim, contoured and trimly tailored. So be sure to try before you buy.

Many of the new toppers have side-slits—a tailoring technique that's hipped to a hip that needs tapering. The properly fitted overshirt must cover the widest part of the hips. When it's any shorter, a plumpish figure line results.

Also very top-ical is the up-in-arms trend to shorter sleeves. These have jaunty roll cuffs or plain little-girl piping.

There is a host of colors textures or fishnet to wear with mid-thigh skirts. Let's hope the oldsters don't decide that now is the time to take Shaw seriously about youth being wasted on the young. It's far wiser if you're over voting age to check the urge to uncover.

If the fact that knees are news puts you irresistibly into the act, remember that what you put on your legs must coordinate with what you put on your back. When you shorten your skirt, you change the basic proportions of everything about your costume and adjustments must be made all along the line.

To achieve a nonstop look, color co-ordinate stockings, shoes and dress. And donate your high heels to a fashion museum. The success of the short-skirted look, essentially a very young one, depends on standing straight as an arrow but looking closer to the ground with low, substantial heels.

The degree to which we can wear the little girl look depends on age and figure. And if you can't be objective in front of your mirror ask your husband what he thinks.

Perfect Timing (?) By Don Rickles

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—You've got to admire Don Rickles' timing. When his wife, Barbara, gave birth to their first child, Don's excited first words to her were, "We're going to have at least three more." . . . Stuart Whitman has acquired a property story called "Glover"—which he wants to produce himself. He figures the only way to guard against films being ruined in the editing is by making his own. . . . He isn't talking, and that's only natural—does Mase tell Gimbels?

Have you noticed the juxtaposition of commercials on television this summer? First you get the good, public-spirited gasoline company, telling you to drive safely because they want you to live and buy lots of their good, public-spirited gasoline. And then, one act later, along comes the tire company with its rip-snorting animated tiger, urging you to drive like a madman and take curves on two wheels and otherwise risk your expendable neck.

I'll buy A's gasoline, but not B's tires.

Wide-Open Career Field

By Aileen Snoddy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Are many young women missing the career boat in this era of fun and games? Those closest to physical education and recreation programs in the United States believe they are.

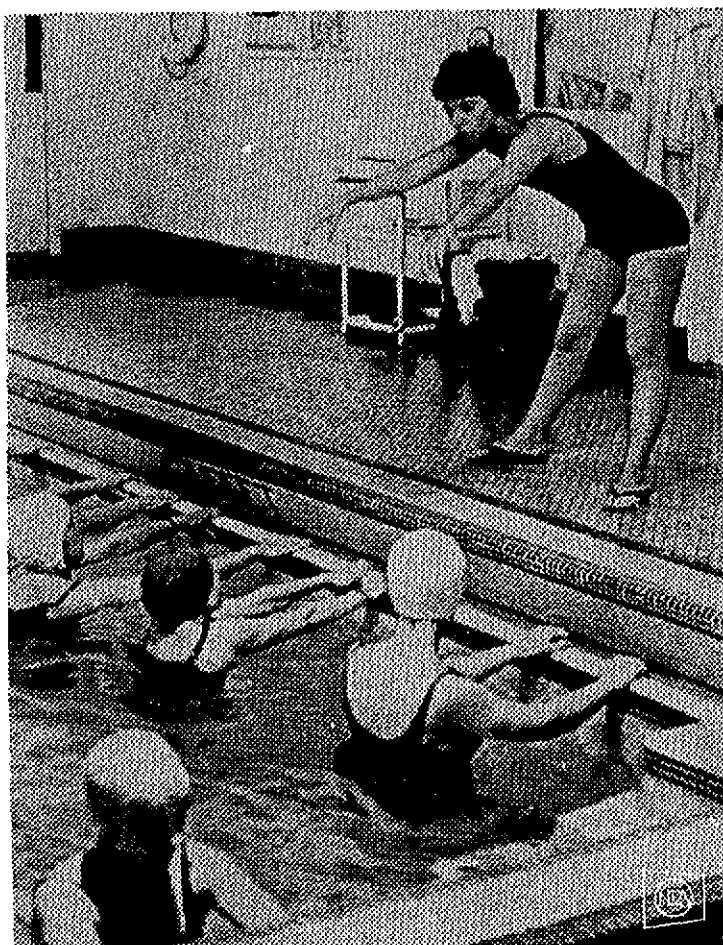

There still is a stigma surrounding, for example, the phys ed teacher. According to a man who classifies himself as a sportsman and "not a good sinner or watcher," both parents and high school guidance counselors are to blame for discouraging young women from entering the field.

"Many parents," Richard J. Osner says, "still believe this area of teaching is not a career for a woman. They think of it in terms of the muscle builder. They don't want their daughter lumped in with 'the gal who is long on muscle and a bit shy in the mental department.'"

Osner criss-crosses the United States constantly and is in touch with college and high school physical education leaders as educational director for the major dresser of women in phys ed classes.

In his more than 20 years with the E. R. Moore Co., Osner has seen more than a shift from the gym bloomer suit to the comfortable (but modest) Jamaica or Bermuda look as a uniform.

"There is a slow trend," he

Young women who like sports may miss the boat when choosing a career. This YWCA swimming instructor didn't. says, "for physical education programs specifically programmed to contribute to the health, growth and good shape of the women who must take them as part of their school requirements. What is lacking though, is the stress, understanding and encouragement of young women to enter physical education and recreation as a career."

By rewarding, he adds that the academic salaries run from $3,600 to $14,000, comparable to the stipends of teachers of English, physics or languages. However, he points out the field demands intelligence since the college courses are tougher than in decades past when an "A" in bean bag got a student over the hump.

The youth who wants to continue her own athletic interests while teaching others to enjoy their potentials can get scholarships. But money and drive aren't enough. A young woman also needs to like and like to be with children, have patience and like athletics.

There is a need for specialists in recreation. According to Ann New of Parks and Recreation, a publication of the National Recreation and Park Assn., not enough girls realize the jobs that are available in this growing field.

"This also is an area of which parents approve. It is suitable, safe and the salaries are very good. There will be 600 graduates in recreation in 1966. In the next 10 years we expect 30,000 vacancies with fully half of these open to women."

There now are 60 colleges offering courses in recreation.

Dear Dwane: Yup, some nerve. . . But no excuse. That old comeback, "You did it, so why can't I?" doesn't make cheating any more honest — and you know it! — H.

Dear Helen: I am a guy who just graduated from high school, and my parents don't even like to hear me speak of girls, so I don't but I still think about them.

I am not allowed to date, and I can't even go out on Sunday afternoons without being told to go to a friend's house and stay there, then being asked what we did while I was there. After a hard day's work, I can't even go down town on Saturday night. Naturally I can't drive the car.

Knees that are out are in. To keep stocking tops out of sight some manufacturers are making shorter welts. Stockings here are of Cantrexe nylon which has built-in stretch.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Some of the new skirts are shorter than last year's panty girdles. So the great debate is what to wear for underpinnings.

Hosiery and lingerie manufacturers have met the challenge of the hiked-up hemline in several ways.

As skirts go up, what's coming down the leg is fancy trimming. The newest panty girdles have lace ruffles at the cuffs and the lace is meant to be seen. Just sew a few little ruffles on any you have left over from the long skirt era. You'll know you're a really "in" when your best

Actually, the head is for the giant statue of St. Francis he's working on as one of his proposals for a shrine to be constructed on once-dreaded Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay now that the outmoded island prison has been closed. Bufano's proposed shrine would stand 300 feet high.

If a ruffled girdle seems a shade too much like fancy baby pants to you, all is not lost. There are panty girdles and stocking combos—all-in-ones as well as two-parters—on which extra long hose snaps under a short panty leg.

The young slip of a gal whose figure needs little control is doubly lucky. Cantrexe nylon panty hose and tights that have built-in cling to eliminate sagging will be her cup of tea.

Even traditional hosiery is meeting the challenge of the knock-knee look. Welts are becoming shorter or acquiring lace decoration and other refinements, the theory being that what must show should at least be pretty. Some have jeweled butterflies smack on the knees. And even the fancy garters of the '20s are back—with pussy-cat bows.

SUN-MON at SAENGER

COMING SOON at SAENGER

Hayley Mills is caught in another prank by Rosalind Russell as the Mother Superior of her convent school, in this scene from "The Trouble With Angels," new Columbia Pictures comedy in color which also stars newcomer June Harding, right, as Hayley's devoted classmate and companion in confusion. Also starred are Binnie Barnes, Gypsy Rose Lee, Camilla Sparv and Mary Wickes.

First Flying Attempt
Man's first attempt to fly was made with what was called an ornithopter, a flying machine with flapping wings operating either mechanically or manually, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

HEAR THESE WORDS

Worship In Church Every Week

HAVE

ONLY

...to a high calling in Christ. For I know, "out of the lowest depths there is a path to the loftiest heights." This man's challenge is higher ground...to blaze his way to God. His highest moral intent is to go Heavenward. God had a purpose in his road-block. Maybe there is one before you. God doesn't make it easy for us to be good. But He gave Jacob a ladder and he climbed to Princehood with God. From way down, a man can climb way up when his purpose is lofty. The church will help every man in his climb if he truly seeks higher ground. You are what you want to be — good or bad; of God or of the devil. Then seek good this week...go to church.

You In The Church
The Church In You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

This Feature Is Published With the Hope that More People Will Go to Church. It Is Paid For By Firms 100% Interested In This Community.

SEEKS DAMAGES—Hedy Lamarr will seek $5 million in damages from the Los Angeles department store which accused her of shoplifting. Her attorney, Jordan Wank, shown with the actress as she was acquitted of the charges in a trial last month, said he will file a false arrest suit against the May Co.

WINNERS—Winners of top contests in primary elections across the country included Robert King High, left, Miami mayor who upset incumbent Gov. Haydon Burns with strong Negro backing for Florida's Democratic gubernatorial nomination and U.S. Rep. Robert Duncan, right, who won U.S. Senate nomination in an Oregon Democratic primary viewed as a test of public sentiment on Viet Nam. Duncan, a champion of President Johnson's policies, defeated an administration critic.

Predator Control
The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission's antiquated and expensive "predator control" program has made Arkansas the laughing stock of every professional administered wildlife management in the country.

Arkansas employs more predator trappers than any state in the nation, 24 at last count, and annually pours an estimated $180,000 down the predator hole. Missouri, by contrast, has a model program; employing only one trapper to teach farmers to catch outlaw animals that are actually doing damage. Missouri's extension citizen-trapper program costs less than $10,000 a year and complaints from farmers have dropped to almost zero.

Therefore, it was encouraging to see the commission lift its ban on predator hunting during the off-season. This is the first step Arkansas has taken toward a sensible predator program since the bounty system was discredited.

We never could understand why the state should squander thousands of dollars on an army of trappers, then forbid honest sportsmen from hunting coyotes, bobcats and other "varmints" for pleasure. Predator hunting is usually done during the summer months when other seasons are closed.

However, including beneficial hawks and owls on the list of protected species is objectionable. Nor, now that beavers have made a comeback, is their justification for leaving them completely unprotected, even though they do cause crop damage in some areas.

The owl and the hawk have an undeserved bad reputation, based on ignorance, for destroying domestic fowl and game birds. The rare marsh hawk may eat a quail or rabbit now and then, but the thousands of crop-eating rodents and insects most hawks and owls devour each year more than make up for any game damage.

Nature's balance is a delicate thing and it is unwise to trifle with it. Hawks and owls are among the farmer's best friends. The game regulations should be modified to protect them, not encourage their annihilation by misinformed hunters.

Wolves also should be excluded from the "open season" list, as unlikely as this may seem. The timber wolf (Canis lupus) was never native to Arkansas, folklore notwithstanding, and the only two types of wolves Arkansas ever had, the Mississippi Valley Red Wolf (Canis niger Gregory) and the Texas Red Wolf are almost extinct and deserve protection. Both of Arkansas' wolves have been placed on the endangered species list by wildlife organizations and only a few hold out in remote areas.

Most "wolves" reported are actually coyotes, which have extended their range throughout Arkansas. Coyotes seldom weigh more than 35 pounds, while the Mississippi Wolf weighs between 45 and 65 pounds. Genuine wolves are rare in Arkansas. In fact, two Canadian biologists have searched the state diligently for Canis niger — without success. — Baxter Bulletin, Mountain Home, Ark.

China Recalls Three Movies

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese importer of Communist Chinese motion pictures said today he has complied with a cabled request from Peking to stop showing three films. He believes they are victims of the current purge on the mainland.

Two of the movies show Peking Mayor Peng Chen and the third tells of the growth of Red China's military forces.

Peng Chen was recently removed from the post of first secretary of the Peking party committee, and the army film has been attacked for presenting an unbalanced, misguided picture of the military growth. The scenario was written by officials accused in the purge.

PRAYERS ANSWERED?—Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fronczak of Chicago are seeking adoption, to resolve any legal questions, of a 2-year-old boy found abandoned in Newark, N.J., last July whom they believe to be their son stolen from a hospital the day after his birth in 1964. Authorities say it has not been absolutely established whether the boy is the Fronczak child, right, photographed shortly after birth.

Man Should Always Remember Daydreams

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Just as housewives have periodic fits of housecleaning, so should a man now and then sift through his day-dreams.

Some he will wish to keep in mind, some put away in mothballs for a time, and some discard forever with the rest of yesterday's rubbish.

And, of course, as he goes along he'll want to add to his warehouse of daydreams to keep his stock fresh and new. Life is sorry when one's supply of daydreams become threadbare.

Looking over my present inventory of unfulfilled goals, I find I'd still like to—Go on a real African safari and bring back as my only hunting trophy a stuffed mouse. Invent a telephone that would froth at its mouthpiece and snap at the ear of any teen-ager who approached it.

See if I could hypnotize a cobra by playing it a long-playing record by the Beatles.

Develop a slot machine that would take free souvenir snapshots — so the suckers would at least get something for their money.

Even British Disagree With Ruling

By THOMAS A. REEDY

LONDON (AP) — An American Supreme Court decision guaranteeing a man's right to keep his mouth shut when arrested has aroused disagreement in Britain as well as in the United States.

The 5-4 ruling in Washington established that any person taken into custody must be cautioned and allowed to remain silent. Even if he confesses to a crime, the prosecution must prove there was no duress.

Some U.S. police chiefs complained that known criminals would find a new haven in such circumstances. Dissenting justices implied the same thing.

One British lawyer said: "It depends which side you are on. If you are prosecuting, it is good to know that every precaution has been taken. If you are a defense counsel, you can always attack the handling by the police."

Another attorney commented: "The decision seems only to imitate what our practice has been for a century. We got rid of the third degree and the so-called confession, later to be repudiated in court, a long time ago."

Lawyers in Britain do not comment on such issues by identity; if an attorney's opinion is elicited during a trial the journalist who uses it is in hot water.

Policemen also are restricted in dealing with legal matters. But these were sample opinions:

Policemen No. 1: "We have been too easy on criminals for too long, cautioning them before they open their mouths. If I saw you running from a bank with somebody shouting 'Stop thief!' I would be compelled, after detaining you, to say: 'Sir, you are under no obligation to talk but if you do, everything you say will be taken down and may be used in evidence.'"

"We must follow this Instruction even if I know you are a multiple convicted criminal."

Policemen No. 2: "Governor, we haven't a chance. As soon as we stop a man, even before we get him to headquarters, we have to caution him and by the time we have told him about all his rights he has a good story. Prior dealings with suspects have been regulated in this manner for about a century."

As soon as a policeman has enough material to justify detaining a man, he is obliged to tell the suspect something like this: "We have every reason to believe you are involved in this crime. You do not have to say anything. But if you do, whatever you say will be taken down and may be used in evidence."

One Scotland Yard official says this came about when eager policemen obtained confessions which later were thrown out of court because duress has been pleaded and proved.

What is duress? This official observes: "If you interrogate a man for a certain number of hours, that can be called duress. His statement then is regarded as something he might not have said unless he had been badgered."

The U.S. Supreme Court judgment took that factor into account as well, declaring that unduly long interrogation would be regarded as subjecting a prisoner to duress when his confession was introduced in evidence.

Confessions in British trials usually are offered as a last resort. If the evidence is clear cut, the confession is almost beside the point. If the man's statement is needed to secure conviction, it is introduced generally at the end of the prosecution's case.

Foreign Troops to Leave Dominican

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—U.S. and Latin-American troops of the 8,000-man inter-American peace force will begin leaving the Dominican Republic before July 1, official sources say.

The withdrawal is not expected to be completed before September and could take even longer, the sources said Wednesday.

The starting date is expected to be fixed Friday in Washington at a meeting of the Organization of American States.

President-elect Joaquin Balaguer is to be inaugurated on July 1.

U.S. Troops Kill 347 in 3-Day Fight

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. air cavalry company battling North Vietnamese regulars called in air and artillery strikes Friday so close that fragments wounded five of the troopers. A calculated and well-aimed risk, American shells and rockets exploded only 50 yards away.

The fight was one of several locking hundreds of men in heavy fighting that persisted into the night on the coastal flank of the central highlands above Tuy Hoa. It was the fifth day of Operation Nighthawk, in which U.S. airborne troops have reported killing 347 men of Red battalions estimated to total 2,500.

On the political front, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu gave the Constitutional Assembly to be elected Sept. 11 virtually free rein in writing a new constitution. He decreed that a simple majority will decide on the draft and a two-thirds majority can override any veto by the ruling civilian military directorate.

Panama Museum Relics Stolen

PANAMA (AP) — Police are hunting for burglars who stole gold relics valued at about $750,000 from Panama's National Museum Wednesday.

School Reopens After Rioting

PANAMA (AP) — Classes resumed quietly Wednesday in Colon high schools which had been closed for 16 days after bloody student rioting. Colon, Panama's second city, is on the Caribbean end of the Panama Canal.

High schools in Panama City reopened without incident on Monday. Schools in both cities were closed June 6 after clashes with police resulted in two student deaths and extensive property damage in Colon.

Enough to Make Her Homesick

NEW YORK (AP) — The new Mrs. America, Joy Nuffer, 32, of Houston, Tex., got homesick pretty fast in New York.

She was making publicity pictures Wednesday at 42nd Street and Broadway when someone stole her garment bag, containing a $107 ensemble, from the top of a fire hydrant where she had put it down.

"I never realized things like this happened here. I'm going back to Texas. I'm homesick already," the mother of three declared.

Later, however, a dress designer made Mrs. Nuffer a gift of a new outfit.

"New York can't be all bad. I think I can adjust to it," the beauty queen decided.

Another Human That Has Defied Machines

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Our world has become highly commercialized and industrialized, and these days a machine can supply almost everything except faith and motherhood. The human factor has been replaced by complicated computers which have a "Thinking Ability" in fields ranging from mathematics to matrimonial selections. When mechanical marvels make mistakes, the human who punched the button is apt to get the blame.

In the light of these facts it does one's heart good to read of another human that machines have not yet replaced. That is the salesman or saleswoman.

Notice we did not say "old-fashioned salesman," for that is not the case. Today's salesman — in whatever field he is engaged — must have Personality plus Product knowledge to equal Professional status, according to an article which appeared in a trade journal a few years ago.

Personality has always been a major factor in a successful sales career, but with more knowledgeable customers today it is also essential that a salesman know anything and everything about the product he is selling. After all, customers ask questions and expect to get straight, correct answers.

What has sometimes been referred to as a "hot air merchant" does not last long today. Oh, he may make a big splash at first, but he usually sinks before he swims far. He can't fool as many people as he once could, since the general public is presently better-informed on more subjects than ever before, thanks to better advertising.

Johnson Asks Independent Road Audit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jim Johnson formally opened his gubernatorial campaign headquarters today with a call for an independent audit of the Highway Department.

Johnson urged other candidates to join with him in a pledge for a thorough investigation of Highway Department activities.

Arkansas has a $750 billion investment in highways, Johnson said, and the people have a right to know how that investment is being protected.

"It's been 14 years since we had an independent investigation of the Highway Department," Johnson said. "The breath of scandal is now on many highway department actions."

He referred specifically to recent illegal pay raises for department personnel and an investigation into reports of overpricing of asphalt sold to the department.

Johnson accused the Highway Department of "dragging its feet" in the asphalt probe. He also said that the lawyers hired to handle the investigation J. L. Shaver Sr. and J. L. Shaver Jr. of Wynne, are good friends of the Faubus Administration and of William J. Smith, the governor's legal advisor.

Johnson again called Smith "the No. 1 string puller" in the Faubus administration.

Stage Hand Will's Actress $10,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Marie Wilson is chief beneficiary in the will of a stage electrician whose she drove home after every performance of the stage show "Ken Murray's Blackouts" for more than seven years.

Miss Wilson appeared in Superior Court in Los Angeles Tuesday and also was approved as administrator of the estate of electrician George Thompson. Her husband, producer Robert Fallon, said the estate was about $10,000.

Candidate to Headquarters

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rev. Corbett Mack of Benton, a candidate for lieutenant governor, will officially open his campaign headquarters here Saturday.

Mack's campaign manager, A. V. Hutchison of Benton, will be in charge.

At one time salesmanship was something like hogcalling; it wasn't the noise you made but, rather, the appeal in your voice. The factor of Product Knowledge has entered the picture now, and a sales manager of a ceramic company has suggested having a College of Sales and Marketing with a degree of P. S. (Professional Salesman) offered at the completion of a four-year course of study.

The suggestion for a P. S. degree was made two or three years ago and it isn't known here if it was adopted anywhere. The first requirement of a Traveling Salesman is, of course a dedication in his personality make-up which includes a "living-out-of-a-suitcase life" and being away from home and family sometimes for weeks at a time. It takes someone special.

While Product Knowledge is important for all who sell, another factor seems to have been overlooked by all from whom we've gleaned information — a salesman must genuinely like people. If he is insincere, it shows, as pretense is even worse than passiveness.

Last, but not to be overlooked, is Enthusiasm. Henry Chester said, "Enthusiasm is the greatest asset in the world. It beats money and power and influence." To a salesman it is one of the Tools of the Trade.

There is a stairway to success, we are told, and though folks sometimes try to take the elevator, maybe the four steps we have mentioned would be a safer ascent for a salesman: acquire a pleasing personality; know your product; like people; be enthusiastic.

What's that? Did someone say, "I'll buy that?"

Youth Given Medal for His Heroism

By KARL R. BAUMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Eugene Crowe, 7, who is small for his age, managed one faint grin today, but otherwise was solemn and nervous as he received the Young American Medal for heroism from President Johnson.

David received the medal for the single-handed rescue of his three younger sisters from their burning home in Cherokee, Kan., Dec. 2, 1964. He was 5 at the time.

Others receiving the medal were Jeffrey James Gallagher of Haskell, N.J., who, like David, was selected for a bravery medal, and John Arthur Hanfurs, Eau Claire, Wis.

Gallagher, 17, won the medal for heroism. As a 15-year-old he removed a pilot and passenger from a flaming wrecked plane. Hanfurs, 19, won the service medal for his work in organizing and directing a youth employment service in Eau Claire.

The presentation ceremony was in the Cabinet Room of the White House.

Insurance Hearing in Another Site

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The governor's office reported today that the hearing set for next Tuesday on the recent 21.2 per cent increase in automobile liability insurance has been set for another site.

The hearing had been set for the auditorium in Game and Fish Commission Building, but has been shifted to the second floor of the Justice Building, where the Public Service and Commerce commissions hold hearings.

Robert Trout, press aide to Gov. Orval Faubus, said the change was made to provide more working space for attorneys and for two television stations which plan to make live telecasts of the hearing.

Faubus requested the hearing. Another hearing also has been requested by Faubus in an effort to reduce by 26.3 per cent the rates charged by about 400 out-of-state firms for casualty and property insurance they sell in Arkansas.

2000 Whites Try to Get at Marchers

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — A crowd of screaming, crushing whites was held back by heavily armed police as the Mississippi march staged a rally here Friday.

A wet soft drink bottles were thrown but fell short. A sports car headed straight into the column at one point, scattering the marchers. Two white men in the car were arrested.

"They represent America today," shouted Stokely Carmichael, pointing at the seething whites across the street from the Negro rally on the Neshoba County courthouse steps.

"It's up to us to take care of it and we are going to do it in our own way," he added.

The 300 demonstrators—including a few whites and several white clergymen — roared approval. Carmichael heads the militant Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

Youth Signs for a Huge Boston Bonus

BOSTON (AP) — Jerry Stephenson, a young right-hander signed for a big bonus by the Boston Red Sox in 1962, faced stiff disciplinary action today for his disappearance act.

The 22-year-old Stephenson was suspended without pay, effective last Friday, when he was assigned on option to Toronto in the International League and failed to report.

Stephenson left Boston last Saturday, presumably headed for Toronto. A search was started when he failed to join the Boston farm club.

The Red Sox were notified Thursday that Stephenson called his mother from Flagstaff, Ariz., and said he was driving to the family home in Anaheim, Calif. The Red Sox then imposed the suspension and said the young hurler was subject to further disciplinary action.

Signed out of high school for a reported bonus of more than $75,000 by his father, Joe, a Red Sox scout, Stephenson had a 1-5 record while bothered by arm trouble as a major league rookie last year.

Vatican, Slavs in Agreement

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican and Yugoslavia are preparing to re-establish diplomatic relations after a 14-year break, Vatican sources reported Wednesday night.

Mgr. Agostino Casaroli of the Vatican state secretariat, and Milutin Moraca, president of the Yugoslav government commission on religious questions, will sign an accord in Belgrade on Saturday providing for the exchange of envoys, the sources said.

Baptists to Meet at Hot Springs

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The American Baptist Association picked Hot Springs, Ark., Wednesday as the site of its 1966 convention.

The convention also agreed to buy property in the suburban area of Texarkana, Ark., for the association headquarters. It will move from the downtown area.

Messengers to the annual convention here re-elected Dr. A. L. Patterson of Texarkana, Ark., as secretary-treasurer of missions.

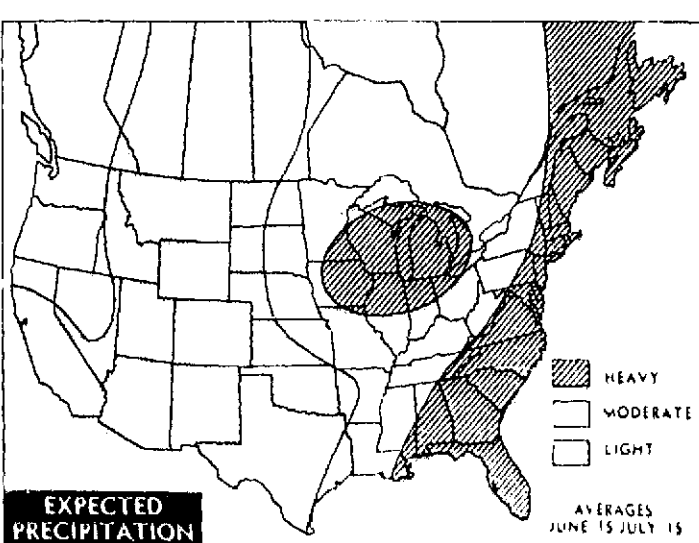

Didn't Intend Slap at Sen. Fulbright

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House speaker, Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr. of Pulaski County, said Tuesday that a resolution in support of the President's Viet Nam policies was not intended as a slap at Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Cottrell offered the resolution at a White House legislative conference last Thursday and it was unanimously adopted by the legislators from 43 states.

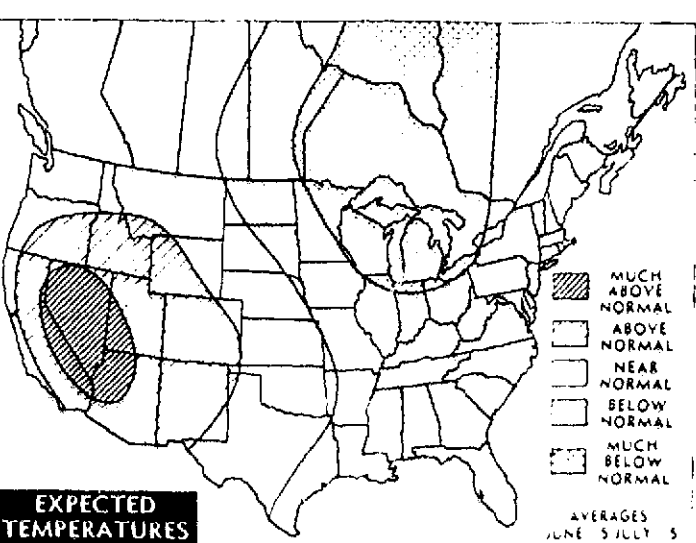

Cottrell said he had the highest respect for Fulbright, who has been a leading critic of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Summer Starter

The Atlantic seaboard is in for some wet weather along with the Great Lakes, while precipitation is expected to be sparser than usual throughout the Intermountain West, the Southwest and most of California.

Maps show Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperature, precipitation through July 15.

Cool in the East, warm in the West is the temperature outlook. A chilly zone over the Upper Great Lakes will be balanced by readings much above normal in a wide area of Nevada, California and Arizona.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Finesse Is Not Best Play

Today's hand was reported to the Bridge Bulletin of South Africa by H. St. John Ingram of Kent, England. It was played in a team of four match between England and Scotland.

Six hearts was reached at both tables and the king of clubs was opened. Each declarer won in his own hand. The Scottish expert decided quickly that his best chance was a successful diamond finesse. He tried and lost. East led a second club and the hand collapsed.

The English declarer thought things over for five minutes. The time and thought proved well worthwhile because he came up with a play that was certain to win for him provided diamonds broke 3-2 and trumps broke 3-1 or better.

You are looking at all the cards. See if you can come up with this play.

He started by leading a diamond to dummy's ace. Then he ruffed a diamond with a high trump. This was the first key play. The second was to lead a low trump toward dummy.

West went up with the jack and forced dummy with a club but it did him no good. South ruffed another diamond with another high trump. This set up the rest of dummy's diamonds. Then he drew West's last two trumps by leading his last high trump and the low trump he had kept carefully to put dummy in to run off the rest of the diamond suit.

Mr. Ingram did not mention the name of the declarer but we rather think that he himself played the hand and modestly refrained from mentioning it.

50 GOLDEN YEARS

He was 26, a young officer fresh from West Point. She was 18, the popular society girl from Denver. And the small, private ceremony on July 1, 1916, launched them on a marriage partnership that was to reach the heights of public life. Here in pictures are a few of the highlights from the 50 memorable years together of Dwight David and Mamie Doud Eisenhower.

After marriage came a career that took the soldier from dreary Army posts to world capitals and eventually the supreme command of Allied European forces. They were together except for the grimmest days of World War II.

With a typically wifely gesture, Mrs. Eisenhower adjusts the tie of the soldier in unaccustomed mufti as president of Columbia University in 1948.

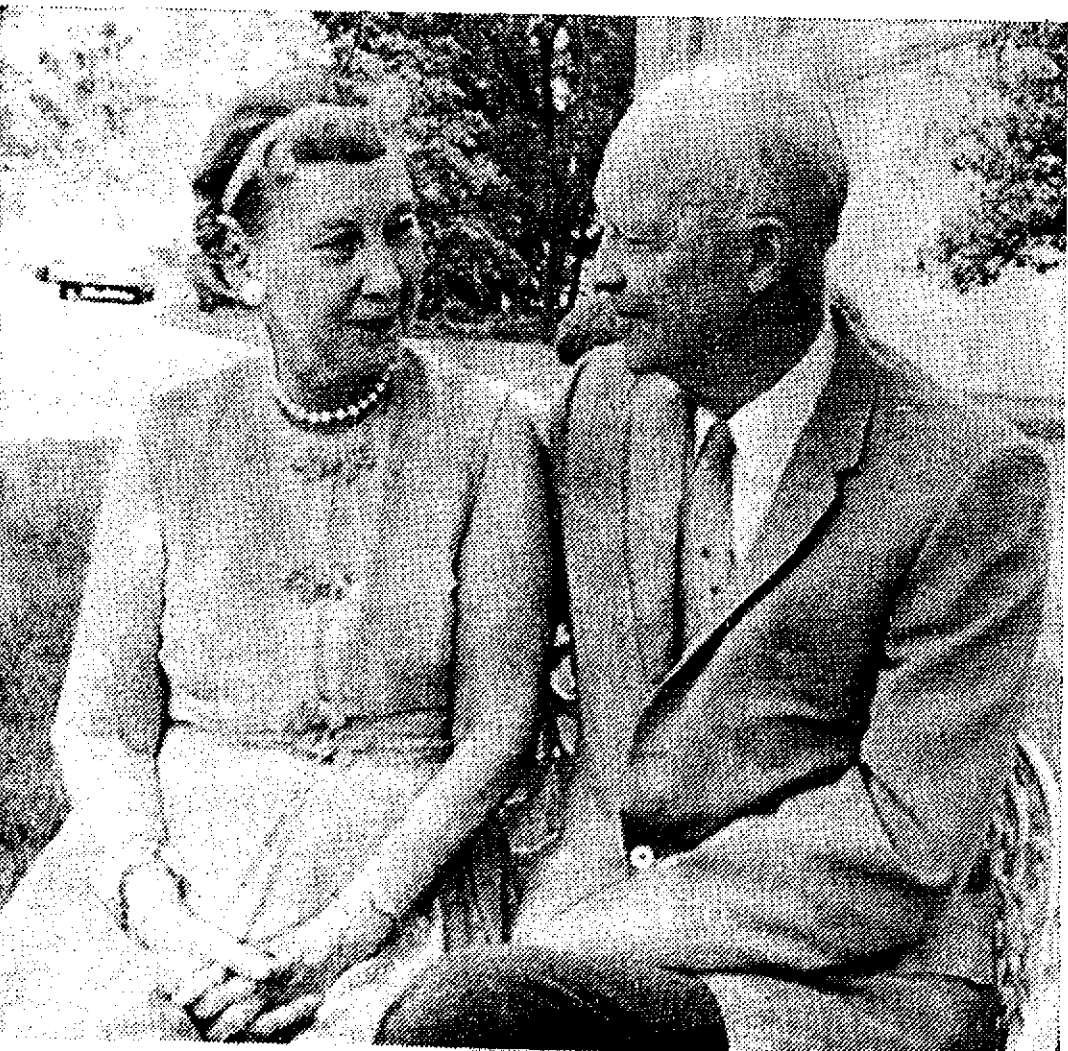

Together in Chicago on July 11, 1952, they heard the Republican National Convention roar approval of his nomination for the presidency.

The roar of the crowd again, this time at their second Inaugural Ball in January 1957. With them was their son John.

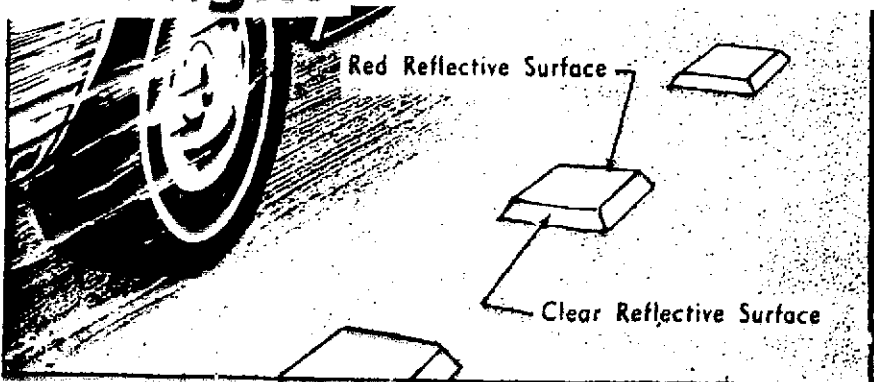

After the White House, home became the farm near Gettysburg, Pa., where they returned at Christmas 1965 after his recovery from two heart attacks.

Safety at Night

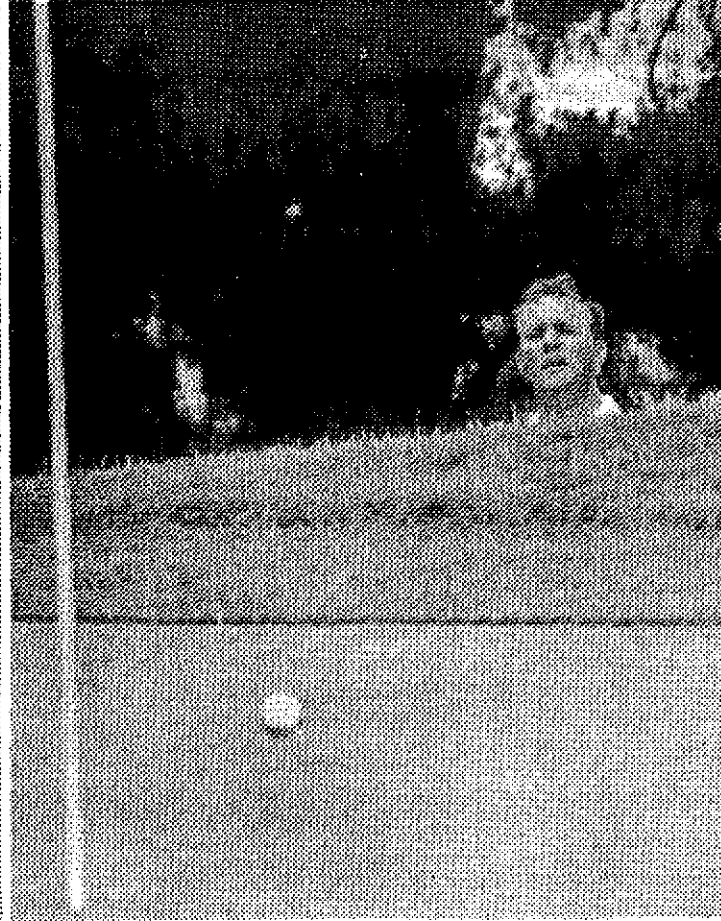

Painted lane markers are passe on California highways. Replacing them are raised, plastic markers, above, clearly visible in daylight and which, at night, reflect headlamp light. Spanning a 24-foot space are sets of three white, domed, nonreflective markers and one of the reflector type. The opposite side of the reflective marker flashes red to warn drivers traveling the wrong way on a freeway. On two-lane highways they glow yellow to mark the center line. The markers rise 65 inch above road surface, cause a rumble which alerts a sleepy or inattentive driver that he is changing lanes. Where snow removal equipment is used, the markers are set in drilled holes flush with the roadway. Photo at left shows how clearly the markers stand out in nighttime traffic on Interstate 80 near Vacaville, Calif.

BEGINNING JUNE 26, DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING WILL SPEED CALLS THROUGH FASTER THAN EVER FOR HOPE AND BODCAW TELEPHONE USERS

ALMOST AS FAST and easy as dialing local calls, Direct Distance Dialing will put Hope and Bodcaw telephone users "closer" to people almost everywhere. Beginning June 26, lift the receiver... just a few spins of the dial, and, in a matter of seconds, the miles between you and those you call seem to vanish. You experience a wonderful new sense of "nearness"... as though you were talking to a neighbor.

And, because Direct Distance Dialing calls go through at low station-to-station rates, you save money, too. It's fast, fun and easy.

HOW TO PLACE YOUR OWN DDD CALL

Just dial "1"... plus the three-digit area code for the city you want... plus the telephone number... that's all. Suppose, for example, you wish to call LUther 5-6265 in St. Louis. The St. Louis area code number (listed in the front pages of your telephone directory) is 314. So you'll dial:

1	314	LU 5-6265
DDD Code	Area Code	Telephone Number

Presto. You're talking in a matter of seconds.

P.S. No charge for wrong numbers. If you should reach a wrong number, just find out what city and number you reached. Then hang up, dial your own "Operator" immediately and report it to her. She will see that you are not improperly charged for the call.
